

James N. Davis*, FCSI

“For your vision and dedication to education by developing a viable specifications writing course; creating the Atlanta CSI Foundation; integrating students into product shows; and your innovative service to the Institute as a leader, writer, and mentor, you are advanced to Fellowship in the Institute on the 23rd day of June 2001.”
Dallas, Texas

JAMES "JIM" NEAL DAVIS was born in Douglasville, Georgia on December 20, 1949.

He graduated from Douglas County High School in 1967 and completed his Bachelor of Architectural Engineering Technology degree from Southern Technical Institute in 1973. He was employed by John Portman Associates, and was a partner at Williamson & Associates in Atlanta until 2000, when he retired to St. Simons Island.

Jim is a licensed architect and a member of the American Institute of Architects. He held numerous leadership positions within various professional organizations.

He was president of the Atlanta Chapter of CSI, and was involved with the local chapter in Glynn County. Jim also served on numerous homeowners associations, including President of the Island Club on Sea Island and was on the Island Club Board of Directors. He volunteered with the Optimist Club, the local AIA chapter, and assisted with the PGA Tournaments held on Sea Island.

Jim passed away 19 June 2016, in St. Simons Island, Georgia.

CSI Membership
Atlanta Chapter